

Shoreditch Park and City Primary Care Network (PCN) – Health Fair Invitation

Organisation:

RE: To whom it may concern:

On the 17th September 2022, from 11am to 3pm, the Shoreditch Park and City PCN will be hosting our first ever PCN Health Fair, co-ordinated by the dietetic service. Childhood and adult obesity is a growing health problem identified amongst the patient population within the Shoreditch Park and City PCN. As such, as a PCN we are looking to address the problem using a whole systems approach to increase patient, provider and community engagement and action towards improving patient health outcomes. On behalf of the PCN, we would like to extend a warm invitation to your organisation, to participate in this exciting PCN health promotion event.

Aim:

The aim of the Health Fair is to address the childhood and adult obesity problem within the PCN patient population.

Objectives:

- Education and Awareness
- Patient, provider and community engagement
- Accessible Care
- Clinical/health measurements and health screening

Your engagement and contribution:

The success of the Health Fair will be enhanced by your willingness to participate, engage and share your services and how this can contribute to the health knowledge and support available to families and children who are affected by obesity and the health consequences of living with obesity. As part of your engagement, we would be happy for you to have a stall, with helpful leaflets, information and resources suitable for our families and children, alongside information about the services you provide that they can engage with after the event.

We, the Shoreditch Park and City PCN, would be most grateful if you could indicate your availability to support our inaugural PCN Health Fair, by responding to this email.

We thank you in anticipation of your favourable response.

Yours sincerely,

Claudine Matthews (PCN Dietitian)
Joe Alvarez (PCN Dietitian)
